Not Sectional, But American. In all debates upon the tariff the free traders attempt to make it a sectional question. It is contended that a protective tariff is in the interest of the East and is framed without any regard for the West or South. This miscrable apology for an argument has been heard over and over again during the discussion just closed in the House. The best noswer is, found in an analysis of the Ways and Means Committee; Difthe Republicans four are from the East, six from the West and one from the South. It therefore appears that the West has a' majority of the Republican members on the committee that drafted the new tariff

Among the strongest speeches made in the House in support of this legislation were those delivered by Western Congressmen. A Democratic paper, recently declared that a "new light had dawned" in the minds of many Decears. This light dawned in the West yeas ago and its effect is seen in a tariff bit made by a majority of Western Congressmen to provide revenue for the Government and protection for the people. In the language of Congression Dolliver, of Iown: "This bill is neither Eastern nor Western, nelther Northern for Southern. It, is American through and through, opening the deors of opportunity to every section and to every Scate." [13ke the rest of the political junk that has served as argument for the un-American dogmas of free trade, the sections Issue ls one only calculated to arouse conjempt for the mei, who are seeking to delay the restoration of business confidence and

One by one the propalage fallen away from the advocates of free, trade until now they are regarded from one end of the country to the other na very tireson: abstructionists, their severes, criticism coming, from these sections herefore, given over to the theories they have been forced to abandon by reason of practical experiences

Practical Education.

The New York Evening Post like the Bestor Herald is made exceedingly unhappy by the fact that the Americani people, having experienced the folly of Cleveland tariff reform, elected a Bresident and House of Representatives, last deficit, and replace it with a law to re-store prosperity on protection lines, fall to who out the law of periody and Here is the lament of the Post: . .

The oldest thing is all this is that Mr. slagley is himself a college graduate, but there are no coore signs of college in the arguments and in his view of the ma arguments and in his view of the true nature of mational progress, than if he had been brought up in a topec. In cathering, the had been brought up in a topec. In cathering the most starting things in equipped in the most starting things in equipped in the most starting the starting is a fallure, as a rule, to prevent the graduate, when he enters politices, from sinking mentally to the existing pointificative. This has been the history of the larger number of what are called our "gentlemen in politics."

This locations satisfactions are called our "The larger than the satisfaction in the larger member of what are called our "gentlemen in politics."

The Post has told more truth that one is accustomed to find in its columns. It is only necessary to a postitute the word business for politics and we have a complete admission or what has lung been contended by practical business men The political economy taught in many of our colleges is a beautiful theory, but when the college graduate is brought face to face with the atern problems of life be finds it necessary to gearld of his theories in order to successfully meet the conditions with which he is controuted. To study and absorb the free trade doc-trines is one thing, to adjust them to actual conditions of life is quite a different thing. The Post admits this, although it would not be the Post if it did not have its usual fling about getting down to the political level. This sort of talk is always characteristic of the Stillwater Log Driving Company.

The change to which it reters is the result of practical education. This sort of education has been more rapidly ab-Forbed in the past few years than ever before. It is by no means confined to college graduates. The people every-where have learned the lesson and in consequence are abandoning the so-catled tariff reform theories. The Post admits this fact in another place, namely, in its Washington correspondence. After lamenting the fact that many of the old free trade leaders have been relegated to the rear, the said correspondent writes:
"The old-fashioned Domocratic opposition to the high tariff six ma to have gone to piccos, and the general notion now is that the protective tariff has come.". It therefore appears that the Democrats have not been backward in reading the signs of the times. It is a sail day for the Mugwump politician, but it marks the reviwal of American prosperity and the happlaces of the people."

An End of Humbug. The term "offensive" partisansh p" came into use under Postmaster General Vitas during Cleveland's first administration. It was simply a scheme to get rid of Republican officials and at the same time make a pretense of observing civil service rules. It was a part of the shem reform that proved a preminent feature of Clevelandism. The Post Office Department now mays in effect that holding office will not necessarily debar a man DRESSM ING ROOMS from participating in a political campaign so long as he dose not neglect - de duties. In other words the policy, of duties. In other words the holley of today is to make men honest instead of belog tricky. There has been reported in different sections a disposition on the part of Domocratic officials to try and make it uncontortable for Republican clorks in office under them by preferring charges of partisan activity. Such performances as that will, under this new ruling, received scent attention, unless accompanied by specific charges of reglect of duty. If a public official is competent and failiful during his office hours he will be secure. The offinelve partisanship humbog is ended.

Talking Buncombe.

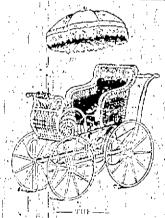

Nhe New York World continues to shout "Trusts" with a big, big, "T," and says that , Mr. Dingley and his supporters have opened the compaign of 1898 auspiciously for the Democrats." Well, as the Republicans are entirely ready to meet the Democrats on this issue, camely, the eractment of protective legislation, it is now in order for the World to explain what it is making all this fuse about. It is it claims, things are coming its, way, certainly no one would magine it from the character of its cultural discussion. The best an-swer to the World's elep-trap largu-
